

Triceratops

He was born with three horns
Which stuck straight out of his face.
As he grew the horns did too,
But always stayed in the same place.
There was one above each eye,
There was a third upon his nose,
Which made him very hard to kiss,
Or so I would suppose.

Chorus: He weighed more than three big elephants,
He was longer than two cars,
His name it was Triceratops,
The three-horned dinosaur.

He was cloaked in heavy armor,
Well, in fact that was his skin,
And he had a bony collar
From his headtop to his chin.
He was actually quite friendly
Though his face looked very grim.
He resembled a rhinoceros
Or does it resemble him?

Repeat chorus.
