

Stegosaurus

Stegosaurus, Stegosaurus,
On his back he had two rows of plates.
Not the kind you ate on, they were armored plates,
Long triangles of heavy skin
Which stuck up tall and straight.

Stegosaurus, Stegosaurus,
Bigger than a boxcar on a train.
Everywhere he went, well, he was very gentle,
Probably 'cause his heart was so much
Larger than his brain!

On his tail he had four terrible pointy spikes.
Spikes? Yikes, spikes!
But he only swung it if somebody tried to bite him.

Stegosaurus, Stegosaurus,
Hiding in the prehistoric trees.
Munching on the greenery, he was hard to see
Because the green triangles on his back
Looked just like leaves.
Eating in the forest, friendly Stegosaurus
Such a gentle dinosaur was he!

